Heat and Wind Continue to Challenge Firefighters

Yesterday storm systems near the fire area produced gusty outflow winds. The winds increased fire activity in the Fish Creek area and along the northwest perimeter of the fire near Pinion Mountain. Containment remains at 68 percent. Fire crews continue to suppress hotspots along the fire's edge. Smoke may be seen due to pockets of vegetation burning within the fire perimeter.

Suppression repair efforts are being conducted in all closed areas, such as chipping downed trees and hauling out equipment and debris to minimize the effects caused by the fire suppression.

A Burned Area Emergency Response (BAER) team is now in place on the Woodbury Fire. The purpose of the team is to identify and manage potential risks on National Forest System lands to human life and safety, property, critical natural or cultural resources. Their work reduces these threats through appropriate emergency measures. The team includes hydrologists, soil scientists, and other resources.
