

Outlook for NW California Fires

Smoke: Similar conditions today as yesterday. Winds will remain northeasterly in the morning then becoming variable in the afternoon with the potential for outflow winds and precipitation associated with thunderstorms. Communities down river of the NW Cal Fires may continue to see USG (unhealthy for sensitive groups) conditions in the morning and into the day. Happy Camp and Seiad Valley may continue to see moderate conditions overall with potential USG in the afternoon. Regional fires continue to contribute to degraded air quality.

Fire: Orleans:<https://inciweb.nwcg.gov/incident/5430/>
 Clear:<https://inciweb.nwcg.gov/incident/5433/>
 Island:<https://inciweb.nwcg.gov/incident/5304/>

Other: There is still a 40% chance of showers and thunderstorms which could create gusty and erratic outflow winds which could increase fire behavior. There is a red flag warning today from 1:00 pm till 8:00 pm.
